7. List of Figures and Tables: Include figure/table numbers, titles, and page numbers, in the order of appearance. Figure titles appear below the figures; table titles appear above the tables. 8. Formatting and Font: The contents are arranged in the order of chapter items. The text is typed by computer and written horizontally from left to right in black. It is recommended to type Chinese in 12-point BiauKai font and English in 12-point Times New Roman. Both Chinese and English should be typed with 1.5 line spacing. The margins of page should be 3 cm at the top, 2.5 cm at the bottom, and 3 cm on the left and right. Punctuation should be added in the text. The whole text should not be smudged or deleted. The page number should be indicated at the bottom of each page.

9. Paper and Printing: The thesis/dissertation should be bound into a book after the final thesis/dissertation approval. In principle, it should be printed on 80-pound white A4-size paper (photocopy paper), except for the front and back cover, which should be printed on 150-pound paper. If there is a need for a double-page spread, the paper size can be adjusted by students themselves. However, when printing the paper, it should be folded into A4 size. Double-sided black and white printing is adopted as a principle, but when the number of pages is less than 80, single-sided printing is allowed (color pictures can also be printed on one side). In consideration of the needs of collection, it is recommended to use "acid-free paper".
10. References: When citing other article, literature, research paper, etc. in the thesis/dissertation, students should put a note (author's full name, publication year) in parentheses after the quoted text or sentence, and list the author's full name, publication year, document title, volume number, publisher, etc. in the References. For online resources, the data retrieval date and URL should also be listed. The format can refer to the APA format or other international formats specified by the department or institute.
11. Departments/institutes may establish additional detailed formatting rules in accordance with academic norms in their field. Citation formatting must avoid ambiguity to prevent plagiarism issues.
12. The Division of Registration will provide samples of the Cover, Advisor Approval Form, Final Thesis/Dissertation Review Form, Spine, Table of Contents, etc., including font size, character and line spacing, etc., available for download on its website or via the Academic Information Systems.
13. Master's/Doctoral students in fine arts, applied science or technology, or sports field may submit a collection of work or proof of achievements along with a written report, or a technical report instead of a traditional thesis/dissertation for degree consideration. In addition, if the master's program is professional practice, the master's thesis can also be replaced by a professional practice report. The recognition criteria and review of the aforementioned fine arts, applied science or technology, sports or professional practice shall be determined by the respective college's affairs meeting or an equivalent-level meeting and shall be implemented upon approval by a relative academic affairs meeting of university level. Submissions may be in print, disk, CD/DVD, or other digital storage media.
14. These regulations shall be enforced upon approval by the Academic Affairs Meeting.
